Jan-

Understand that the work may have been accomplished principally during [REDACTED]. I briefly discussed this matter with [REDACTED] in FBI's Prepublication Review office, and now that you are an FBI employee, we believe that it appropriate to adhere to FBI policy and procedures regarding prepublication review and that you submit the lexicon to that office. Then, as necessary, the FBI will refer the lexicon to those agencies, like us, who have equities in it.

b6 -2

I have copied [REDACTED] on this note.

Am glad to discuss this further.

Thank you.

Re: Article: The Drumbeats for Clemency Reverberate Again: Jonathan Jay Pollard

Dear Ms. Hudson:

This letter is in response to your request of November 9, 2010, for review of the above referenced article by former employee Spike Bowman for publication pursuant to the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) Prepublication Review Policy (PRP) and Prepublication Review Manual (POL05-001-RMD).

Mr. Bowman's submission was reviewed pursuant to the terms of the PRP and we concluded that none of the information presented falls within a restricted area of disclosure. Therefore, there is no objection to the publication of his article as presented.

Please advise Mr. Bowman that while the FBI has no objection to the publication of his article as presented, that he should include the statement that the views expressed are those of the author and do not represent the opinions, findings, or position of the FBI.

Should you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact [redacted] at 540-868-1697 or via e-mail at [redacted]. Thank you for your participation in the FBI's prepublication review process.

As a point of reference you might wish to send this to Admiral Studeman - he was the Director of Naval Intelligence (the real ODNI) at the time and has been publicly cited many times with reference to Pollard. Another with intimate knowledge was [redacted]. However, I was the only one briefed for all the issues relevant to the Pollard case.

All of the information in this is cited in various references - [redacted] has the most complete story (he was sponsored for this [redacted]). There is nothing here that has not been publicly cited multiple times.

There might be some tweaks to a final, but there will be not substantive changes.

I received this from Dr. Goldman this morning. He's attached a list of all the terms used in his Lexicon. No definitions, just the list of words. As long as the terms have already been approved, I don't see how the list makes any difference, but I thought that you should look it over first.

Thanks for your prompt reply. I have submitted two previous articles along the same general subject lines. While I believe these articles, "clearly have nothing to do with the FBI or its activities, investigations, missions, or operations and are not otherwise related to any FBI information," I have submitted them in the past out of an abundance of caution. At the same time, I don't want to be the cause of unnecessary work for your office. I will send you the currently proposed article at [REDACTED]

Bruce

The prepublication manual provides at Section 2.3.1 that:

Disclosures that clearly have nothing to do with the FBI or its activities, investigations, missions, or operations and that are not otherwise related to any FBI information are not subject to this policy.

Example: A book of children's stories, an article on stamp collecting, a letter to an editor addressing a proposed sewer bond, or an outline of a presentation on the War of 1812 need not be submitted for prepublication review.

If you would still like to send your article for prepublication review, you may send it to me by reply mail, or via the unclassified e-mail to [REDACTED]
